

 Smithsonian Institution

Considering the Afro-Latin@ Experience

Saturday, February 26, 2011

2pm - 3:30pm, Carmichael Auditorium

National Museum of American History

14th Street and Constitution Ave. NW, Washington, DC

Join the Smithsonian Latino Center and the National Museum of American History for a presentation of the newly released Afro-Latin@ Reader and a conversation about the history and experiences of Black Latinos in the United States. Panelists include the editors, Miriam Jiménez Román and Juan Flores, with contributing author María Rosario Jackson and DC-based activist Roland Roebuck. Book available for purchase; don't miss the book signing afterwards!

This program is free and open to the public.